It has been stated officially that it is the intention of the government to start a five-year program to cover 1,000 miles, involving the expenditure of several million dollars.

It has been a busy place at the C. P. R. station for the past week when a gang of 50 extra men was busy repairing the main line through this district.

These men were part of the unemployed who are being put to work by the federal government. The men are being provided with splendid accommodation, such as tourist sleeping cars and dining cars and appear to be enjoying their work.

May Get Irrigation In The Drouth Area

Says Project is Now Nearer Than We Think

"Irrigation may come to the south areas of Alberta sooner than many of us expect," said E. I. Gray, manager of the Eastern Irrigation District, when he addressed the Hanna Board of Trade at its regular luncheon meeting last week. Mr Gray spoke on the subject of irrigation as it may be applied to the drouth area, and his talk before a capacity audience brought new hope and encouragement for those who look toward a realization of the William Pearce Project. Mr Gray summed up the situation by pointing out that land was considered the chief resource, but that land was of no value without sufficient water.

"The Pearce plan may be nearer than we think," said Mr Gray, whose remarks were followed by prolonged applause. The cost of the William Pearce irrigation project would be less than one-tenth of the cost of the Grand Coulee project on the Columbia River.

The record number of 418 graduates received degrees, diplomas and certificates at the 36th annual convocation of the University of Alberta last Friday.

It is authoritatively stated that King Edward will go to France on July 26th, to attend the unveiling of the giant memorial to Canada's war dead at Vimy.

Don't overlook the Big Carnival to be held in the Broadway on Friday evening of this week, under the auspices of the Ambrose Church. If you are sick you will take home some valuable prizes.

Three cabinet ministers accompanied Premier Aberhart to Ottawa to seek Dominion government help in the proposed ending of Alberta's debt, cash loan grants for highway construction and continuance of the present direct relief grant.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex, McColeman, formerly of Redcliff, passed through town by motor last Wednesday on their way to Edmonton to be with their son "Bud" who was graduating at the University of Alberta, having completed his course in Electrical Engineering.

On page four of this issue appears an advertisement inserted by the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, drawing attention to the census to be taken commencing June 1. Look it over and get posted on what you are expected to do when the enumerator calls on you.

Rumored Communists To March to Edmonton

Should be Stopped Before Any Damage is Done

Intensive organization through the province of Alberta is being undertaken by the Communist League of Canada with the ultimate object of fostering a march to Edmonton in the interest of unemployed relief recipients and in an effort to make the provincial government make public declaration concerning its attitude to pay a dividend.

Both the provincial and federal governments should profit by the experience in Regina a year ago and stop this march in the bud, as a safeguard against having a few more policemen killed and scores of citizens wounded.

A possibility of a $500,000 industry for the processing of coal from the Lethbridge mining field was suggested at Wednesday's meeting of the Lethbridge Board of Trade. The suggestion came to Mayor D.H. Elton in a letter, which was read at the trade board meeting from John M. Blackmore M.P. of Raymond.

"According to the calculations made by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics recently, there will be an increase in the planting of spring wheat this year. The estimate for 1936 is 24,354,000 acres compared with 23,600 acres for 1935. The increase is confined principally to Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Winds' unexpected touch surprised spring minded Canadians yesterday and set them shivering particularly in Ontario and Quebec where snow and cold caused heavy damage to orchards and gardens.

Shed at Blacksmith Shop Burned Down

Loss Estimated Around $800 With Little Insurance

The store house in connection with A. Brydie's blacksmith shop and all its contents, made up with blacksmithing material, are completely destroyed by a fire about 2 o'clock last Saturday morning. The origin of the fire is unknown and as a high wind was blowing at the time the blaze was beyond all control. The brigade arrived and the building was burned to the ground in a very short time. The building was 28 x 16 feet and of frame construction. Fortunately the wind was from the west, otherwise the blacksmith shop would also have been destroyed. The loss is estimated at between $800 and $1000 in which there was a little insurance.

Boy Scout News

"Scouting was abolished in Italy and Germany because Scouting helps a boy to think for himself. Dictators do not want people to think. The abolition of Scouting in Germany and Italy is not a setback to Scouting. It is a proof of the value of the training," says J. S. Wilson, Camp Chief, Giltwell Park.

In the course of an address to a thousand representative Boy Scouts from all parts of British Columbia for the Third National Scout Service at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, England, Mr. J. S. Wilson referred to the importance of Scouting in the Scout Movement in its broadest form. It is international and that in these days is a thing of very great importance. I would like you all to remember when you have grown up, when your Scouting days are behind you, this international aspect, because this country will always have to take a leading part in the affairs of the world.

Bennett Govt. Upheld by The Riot Commission

Old Right Thing in Holding Ottawa Troopers at Regins

Action of the federal government in holding the Ottawa rioters off striking relief camp workers was justified, because it menaced "peace, order and good government" it is stated in the report of the Saskatchewan commission investigating the riot and riots at Regina Dominion last year.

Declaring the Relief Camp Workers Union and the riot were fostered by Communism the commission emphasized a riot far worse than killed one police officer and caused injury to almost 100 in Regina, would have occurred had the troopers reached Ottawa.

Since the commission, which investigated the Regina riot, was appointed and chosen by the King government, and as many candidates in the field during the last Dominion election criticized and condemned the Bennett government for its actions in controlling the Regina riot, the finding of the commission must make those who tried to make political capital out of the event, feel like a dirty deuce in a new deuce.

Be sure to give your hearty co-operation to the council for the Clean-up Week which commences next Monday. If every one takes advantage of this move there will be a wonderful improvement in the appearance of the town.

War-like preparations are going ahead in Southern Alberta to ward off a prospective plague of grasshoppers. Farmers are warned to make careful examination of roadsides, bushlands and weedy or abandoned fields and do no sowing of stubble land in threatened areas.

Retail merchants of the town, met in H. Duce's store last Friday evening for the purpose of working out a system of co-operation for the betterment of business activities in the town. There was a full attendance and many matters of importance were discussed. Another meeting will be held in the near future when definite action will be taken.

The result of the health inspection at the school during the past two weeks shows a rather surprising finding of the health condition of a large percentage of the children. Of the 122 examined by Dr. Ward assisted by Miss Hagerman, Public Health Nurse, only 9.5% were found to be without defects of any kind, and 90.5% showed effects of various kinds.

A record of each child's condition has been kept and a copy of same has been sent to the parents. Since the School Board has very wisely gone to this expense, parents should take advantage of it by taking steps as early as possible to improve the health condition of their children.

Taking of the census for Alberta will commence on June 1st. W. Gow of Medicine Hat will have charge of this district.

The Aberhart government announces it will build 22 miles of new highway from Edmonton to Ponoka. In the House of Commons the other day Mr. Hayhurst, B. C. member for Vegreville said: "Inasmuch as Alberta is one of the greatest problems we have to face."

Well! Well! What do you know about that? Can it be possible that the U. F. A government should have built that 22 miles long ago?

Prison Reform

Summer Prison Camps To Be Established In Britain

The first summer prison-camp in Great Britain will be established this year near Wakefield, in Yorkshire. As the Hudson's Bay says, "not prison reformers and people alone, but all people of good-will and understanding" will find interest in the experiment. The camps have already learned something from the Boreal system for young offenders, which was started in Britain some years ago.

The camp system, away from prison walls, has been tried experimentally in Soviet Russia, although there are many of the old prisoners there, too.

During the coming summer, groups of prisoners will leave the Wakefield prison every Monday morning for the camp, and they will return the following Friday. They will cultivate land and do forestation work. Many acres will have to be reclaimed before cultivation begins.

The prisoners will be housed in army huts, where fully equipped kitchens, dining-rooms and sleeping quarters will be provided, so as to make the camp. There will be fewer restrictions than in ordinary prison life. But the great majority of prisoners, it is said, will be short-term men.

In Canada, there are farms in connection with the penitentiaries and the provincial jails, where healthy, productive work is provided for a large number of prisoners. At Headingley, there is no wall about the jail. But both at Headingley and Stony Mountain, the men come in from their work to the jail and the penitentiary for their meals and to sleep.

At the summer prison-camp with which Britain is about to experiment, the men will be away from the prison for nearly a week. They will not have their full freedom, but will be in detention, and they must work. Officials and guards will be in charge. But the full freedom restrictions upon them, and they will feel their condition less than in the prison. The hope will be that the consideration shown them will help them to decide to live honest, industrious lives when they regain their freedom.

It is an experiment worth watching, and it would do no harm to try it in Canada.—Winnipeg Free Press

Contribution Of Doctors

Vast Amount Of Their Work Is Never Paid

A Minnesota doctor, after twenty-eight years of general practice, has announced cancellation of $50,000 in unpaid bills.

Except in the manner of his doing there is nothing uncommon in this act of generosity. Every doctor's ledger is a record of his service to humanity, and if he does not forgive his debtors by public announcement, if he keeps them on his books in a melancholy hope that old will be struck—because doctors must eat—then he is not a doctor, but a miser.

A young doctor enters into his profession in the knowledge that he will do a vast amount of free work, and the result meets his expectations. His bad debts represent his contribution to public service. Traditionally his first concern is with his patient. He hopes to be paid, but if he can't take his satisfaction in a life saved, in pain relieved, or at least in a valiant attempt.

Doctors have a philanthropic attitude towards this situation. They know their bills often are more than likely to be the last met—the sick person's regard for the doctor is apt to be much less warm when he has recovered from his illness—and of course in clinics and hospitals work they do much work for which charge ever to be made by them. But wealth is not the foremost thought in the minds of the great majority of doctors—if it were they would not be doctors.—Ottawa Journal.

Cyanamide Plant

Canada has the only cyanamide plant on the North American continent. It is also the largest plant of its kind in the world. Cyanamide is employed in the manufacture of mixed fertilizers, and its use as a staple application alone as a fertilizer of sulfate of soda and sulphate of ammonia is making headway in the Dominion.

MORTAL REMAINS OF GERMAN AMBASSADOR LEAVE BRITISH CAPITAL

Among the distinguished group of mourners following the caasket can be seen Dr. Dehnbach, Lord Munnell, Sir John Simon, Anthony Eden, and the corps of Ambassadors to the Court of St. James.

Discovered Hidden Talent

Canadian Opera Star Thanks Pioneers Gas For His Success

Anton Young, the Canadian operatic star, whose recent radio debut in England was an outstanding success, is one of the very few men who can thank pioneer gas for giving him a substantial boost in life. As a member of the C.E.P., he was severely gassed at the second battle of Ypres and had to be sent to England to recuperate. Part of the treatment consisted of deep breathing exercises. After a while the patient could say "Ah!" with ease, feeling and power that he was encouraged to try singing and so discovered a hidden talent which eventually led to fame, riches and much happiness. For professional reasons, Anton Young is sometimes known as Signor Alfredo Tommasini. It was under this name that he toured Europe with the Italian State Opera Company in 1932. He was the only singer in the company who was not an Italian, but he didn't experience an inferiority complex on that account.

"Yes, Mary," said Mrs. Newby to her maid, "I do hate to have my husband kiss me after he comes from the barber's. I do so detect the odor of brilliancy on his moustache."

"Do you really, ma'am?" replied the maid. "I rather like it."

Has Handled Many Mysteries

Services Of British Pathologist Are In Great Demand

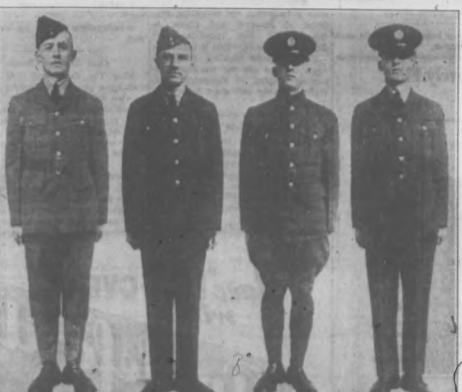

Dr. Bernard Spitzberg, who has been recovering from blood-poisoning contracted during a post-mortem examination, has handled more mysteries than any detective during the last 20 years, comments the News of the World. His services as Home Office pathologist are in such demand that he has travelled as much as 1,200 miles in eight days to give evidence in different cases. He is a patient well as a doctor, tall, imperturbable, grey-haired and square-jawed. His precise manner in the witness-box hardly ever falls to impress juries with his apparent infallibility. He lives in Gray's Inn, and often dies in hall. He drives over cars, and invariably carries his papers about in a battered dog's bag.

One Of The Wonders

How Canadian Jay Hatches Eggs In Freezing Weather

How the eggs of the Canadian jay are ever hatched at all in temperatures which one would imagine would freeze the brooding bird is another of the mysteries which nature constantly supplies. Yet, not only does the mother bird survive, but four or five little jays looking as if they were dressed in grey fur, emerge from the eggs and are well able to take care of themselves long before the first touch of spring has unbundled the icy rivers or melted the snow in the spruce and pine woods where they make their home.—Calgary Herald.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN ROYAL AIR FORCE UNIFORMS

As a result of observations and trials, important modifications in the Service Uniform of officers and airmen of the Royal Air Force are to be made. The most important changes are the abolition of breeches and puttees, and the adoption of a blue field service cap for all personnel, similar to that worn by the Royal Flying Corps. The cap can be adapted for use as a flying helmet, and will be regularly worn on normal duties. Officers will be seen in the new uniform, which will be worn by all the ranks instead of breeches and puttees. A blue-grey gaiter has been adopted for use in inclement weather. It is thought that the alterations and simplicity of the new uniforms will help the comfort and efficiency of the personnel. Left to right: the new uniform, working dress with gaiters for field work, and without gaiters, the old walking-out uniform with puttees, and the new walking-out uniform with peaked cap, blue-grey collar and black tie.

Dehorn All Cattle

Best Method Is To Use Cautie On Horns In Calf Stage

"Dairy and beef cattle," says an authority, "are much better without horns. All cattle hunt one another with their horns, and injuries are much less serious if they are without horns. To dehorn a part of the herd is even more serious than if none are dehorned." Cows heavy with calf, remaining with the herd, are in particular danger. In general, the same conditions apply to beef, but, particularly during the winter feeding season. In fact, it is much better to rear cattle without horns by treating them with caustic while calves. Some stock men neglect this simple operation believing that dehorning can be done when the cattle are put on feed. But young cattle are often moved to market as feeders and the sharp young horns of such very frequently cause serious injury. All in all it is best to raise them without horns. If, however, horns have not been prevented by the use of caustic, all cattle in the herd should be dehorned before they are turned out to pasture. Then, if any are sold, they will not be a source of injury and bruises to the herd and itself, of beef.

It is good quality of beef, one of the principal reasons being the strict attention given to breeding and feeding; but the Argentine breeder is giving more attention than ever to the roping of young calves and killing them with caustic. "It is not time," says the authority quoted above, "for Canadians to sit up and take notice!"

Legend Of Saint George

Tristram Is Still Paid To Patron Saint Of England

Englishmen throughout the world have again paid tribute to the name of Saint George. The charm of the legend of England's patron saint never dims although the calendar of martyrs acknowledges the birth of St. George.

"As St. George was riding across a marsh he encountered a sad prodigy. He saw a 'beautiful girl' dressed in a bride's garments," so runs the king's legend. "She was the king's daughter, on her way to be sacrificed to a dragon which had terrorized the country for years. All the sheep on the land had been offered to it, and new jobs were cast each day for human victims." St. George promised the princess deliverance, and charging on the advancing dragon, injured it with his magic sword Arcton. Then he called to the princess to bind it with his girdle. The dragon looked immediately weak and tame, and followed her to the market place in the city. There St. George killed it with his magic sword, telling the king he did so that it was done to show them the power of God. The queen then gave up their idea and the princess married the knight who had rescued her.

Edward III of England made St. George the patron of the Knights of the Garter, and a jeweled figure representing his slaying of the dragon is one of the insignia of the order. In olden days the standard of St. George was borne before the English kings in battle. His name was the rallying cry of battle.

New Bells For Cathedral

Dedicated At English Factory Before Shipment To Victoria

Ready for Christ Church cathedral in Victoria, British Columbia, eight bells were dedicated at the Whitechapel foundry in England by the Bishop of London. The tenor bell, weighing 7,915 cwt., was formally named King George V. by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner to London, and the seventh bell was named Queen Mary by W. A. McAdam, acting agent general for British Columbia. The ceremony preceded a service in Whitechapel church, where cards are broadcast to the world every Christmas Eve.

First Steamship Invaded The North Pacific One Hundred Years Ago

One hundred years ago this year when steamships were not very common on the Atlantic, the first steamship invaded the North Pacific and began plying its trade on the coast of what is now British Columbia. The spirit of enterprise and adventure that influenced the Hudson's Bay Company from the beginning led it to put this little side-wheel, the Beaver, on the Pacific coast in 1838. And there was good business sense in the move, because the vessel, though making scarcely 40 miles an hour, could travel steadily to and from all the company's trading posts between Fort Vancouver on the Columbia river and the present coast of Alaska. And where the company had no posts, the Beaver could sail up the river to save not been prevented by the use of caustic, all cattle in the herd should be dehorned before they are turned out to pasture. Then, if any are sold, they will not be a source of injury and bruises to the herd and itself, of beef.

The Beaver was built and had her engines installed in England, but she did not steam across the Atlantic. She was only 101 feet long, and only 109 tons register. She was fitted out to sail across the Atlantic with a crew of 26 men, and they both rounded Cape Horn and sailed on the west coast of America. When the Beaver reached Port Vancouver, her engines were put into service with caustic. "It is not time," says the authority quoted above, "for Canadians to sit up and take notice!"

That was at the beginning of developments in British Columbia. After the war, the British and United States territory was drawn along the 49th parallel, and the Hudson's Bay Company, which had been the sole trading company (not to be confused with the present Vancouver) up to Victoria, was given a great deal of the coast of the Fraser river and the Cariboo country. Then the bringing of the colony at the coast into the Canadian confederation, and the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway through to the coast. Since when there has been a great development of the rich resources of British Columbia, which promises a still greater future than previous.—Winnipeg Free Press.
